Superintendent suggests a "slow down"

Benton proposes $39.2M budget

By BRENDAN FOLEY

WILMINGTON — Interim superintendent Joanne Benton presented the School Committee with a proposed budget for the 2018 Fiscal Year. Benton's conservative proposal had a minimal increase over previous years and featured a slow-down of school initiatives.

The recommended budget for FY2018 is $39,206,342.

This is an increase of 4.15 percent from the 2017 budget, which came in at a total of $37,645,468.

In years past, preliminary budgets saw increases of six percent before being whittled down to around four percent through the deliberation process.

The current budget will be needed to support 3,463 students and 476.50 staff members. Per Benton, 93 percent of Wilmington High School students will go on to higher education.

"I really feel that we need to slow things down," Benton said. "You have a science initiative at the middle school level, I believe that we need to continue to pilot it before we make a general decision."

Even with a more conservative approach than other preliminary budgets, Benton and Paul Ruggiero, Director of Administration and Finance, reminded the School Committee and the viewers at home that this preliminary budget represented a wish-list that the school system never presumed would be fulfilled completely. WILMINGTON — Wilmington High School students get so much more than they give when they donate gifts for children in need as part of the student council's Giving Tree project.

"This activity is so effective because so many of the students, parents, faculty and staff participate in it. It is always something that I believe cultivates school spirit and directs it towards a really important cause," said Michael Maloney, faculty advisor for the high school's student council.

The Giving Tree is a community service project to collect toys for children in the community who otherwise may not have the opportunity to receive gifts for Christmas.

The project, which has been a tradition for the past four years, was the brainchild of now-former student council presidents Maeve Sullivan and Annie Romanzo, who along with

It's Your Money

GETTING AT 529 FUNDS

You've been stashing funds into a 529 account for years, and now your child or grandchild is starting college. The funds you withdraw for tuition, fees, required books and supplies—even a computer, if he or she is the primary user—are tax-free.

When you are ready to use the money, contact your 529 program, online, by mail, even by phone. You'll need the beneficiary's account number (many parents and grandparents fund multiple accounts). As the donor, you can have the money sent to yourself, to the student, or directly to the eligible school. If the money is to be sent directly to the school, be sure to include the beneficiary's student ID number. It may take seven to 10 business days for the funds to arrive.

Note that your child need not be a full-time student to qualify for 529-fund use, but must be enrolled at least half-time for you to make tax-free withdrawals for room and board.

Happy Holidays to all from your friends at:

Letters to the editor

Should 'Redmen' name stay or should it go?

Dear editor,
The decision this past March by the Tewksbury school board to keep the teams name "Redmen" has left a lot of citizens unhappy. While most townspeople are satisfied with the results, those who found the name offensive have not changed their minds.
Yet, at the same time, if the school board had voted to make the change, those who wanted it to stay would have been just as unsatisfied.
Before I can suggest a solution, I must make it clear: I do not believe those who support the name "Redmen" are racist. They have lived with the name all their lives, and connect it with the pride they feel towards their hometown, high school team. Likewise, it must be made clear that those who want a change may not consider supporters racist, but still view the name as such. In these divisive times, it is important everyone is represented. A town mascot can only represent a full town if everyone feels pride in it. Therefore, town itself should be in charge of deciding any new mascot and team name. Tewksbury must allow a town wide vote, featuring suggestions for new names or mascots submitted by citizens, to decide this. The democratic process will allow for the most representative decision on the matter.

Thank you for support

(Eds. note: the following letter is being re-run due to several typos in the original version)

Dear editor,
I want to thank the voters of Tewksbury and Wilmington for their overwhelming support in the recent election. I will never forget you. Thank you for having me top the ticket in every precinct I represent, both in Tewksbury and Wilmington, and for allowing me to continue to serve as your State Representative.
I also want to thank all of you who helped to run the campaign, including those who organized and attended the fundraiser; put signs on their lawns; helped with the mailing; and those who put ads together on my behalf.

As I said many times before, "my commitment to public service has never been stronger, my ability to produce results never greater and my enthusiasm never higher."
When I first ran for State Representative, I believed that my work ethic and my integrity would be my greatest tools. I was right.
After my years of service to you and for you, I have never forgotten who sent me to the State House and for whom I work.
Thank you for honoring me with your support.

Representative

Thanks to DPW for quick work moving furniture

I want to thank the Tewksbury D.P.W. for their quick response in removing a discarded piece of furniture left on the side of the road on the corner of East Street and Shawsheen.
It was either tossed or fell off a vehicle. It was right in front of the Welcome to Tewksbury sign on the corner. I appreciate Brian Gilbert's team for his thoughtful appreciation of the issue.

TMHS students ready for winter break

By JULIA SESSA
News Correspondent

This upcoming week TMHS students and staff will finally get a break from classes. With Winter break coming up, many students are excited to spend time with their families or even get those extra hours in at work.

"I'm just excited to finally relax and have a good time with family," stated Mike Ward, TMHS senior.
Mostly at TMHS, students celebrate Christmas. Many prefer staying home in pajamas or some like going out to a big family party, but what is most excited for many is the gifts they can give and receive.
For years, we have been saying that Christmas has become a commercial enterprise, with too much emphasis on shopping and buying. And we often say that Christmas is really about enjoying fine food with family and friends, but maybe that isn't quite right either.

The holiday is now preceded by endless articles and talk shows offering tips on how to "survive" a few hours of eating fine food with family and friends. The stress and guilt associated with those decadent delicacies and social situations has reached a level where people feel that they cannot cope with it on their own, and in result some people despise the holidays. Although winter break is mostly associated with Christmas, many other TMHS students celebrate other holidays.

"I do celebrate Christmas, but not religiously," stated Sam Alman, TMHS senior. "My family is Christian but we are mainly Jewish so we celebrate Hanukkah religiously and just get presents on Christmas."
During this last school week, many are saying their goodbyes by exchanging Christmas gifts with their peers.
"Me and my friends all get together and have a holiday party," stated Hailey Sexton. "We exchanged gifts and just have fun on our break."
TMHS break begins Dec. 23 and school will resume on Jan. 3. Have a great Winter break TMHS!

Guns and schools just don't mix

By PAUL ANDREWS
Guest Columnist

First, let me say this up front in wishing all a Merry Christmas and along with Happy Holy Days for the members of all religions and, as time moves along, realize how much these events are for the younger set who look with awe at Santa in his chair and quite frankly give me joy to see the smile in the boys and girls when they see Santa in whatever setting, party, mall or store that he is present.
This column on the week before the big weekend ahead will focus on some events of this past week that made my hit parade including a local SEEM proposal for a potential vacant school, some discussions about our former Governor Mitt Romney and some of the issues about guns and schools.

The Colorado gun proposal

The Hanover School District 28 school board in Colorado voted recently to allow teachers and other school staff to volunteer to be armed on the job which has sent some shock waves in two directions. First, we have those who feel that this is a great idea in terms of protection of staff and students; and then you have the reverse of folks who feel this is a slippery slope listing a number of problems that could happen.
While one could argue in both directions on this issue, I take the position that this is not a good thing for many reasons including the fact that so much has to be taken into consideration before you carry and use a gun. I find police who go through extensive, continuous practice and training in the use of guns are the folks who should have the weapons.
Second, I feel that most of the well-organized police departments in cooperation with the schools have trained official resource police officers in the upper and larger school buildings, which does not mean they can be everywhere in the buildings but feel the image of the police car outside the building and an officer inside provides great protection where this has been implemented.

Do I worry about the elementary schools, which may look to be uncovered? You bet I do, but most quality police departments have planned to have police cruisers near as many schools as possible in case they are called. Is this fail-safe? No, but the school administrators and staff have been trained by local and State Police here in Massachusetts to handle these cases in the most current methods of school safety.
There has been a great deal learned in terms of needed protection, cameras, school door closures, visual perception of people visiting a school with a visual before entry is granted and many other secure techniques.

While every day I worry greatly about this issue, I feel that guns in the hands of experienced police officers with a well informed and trained school staff is the logical and best procedure.

Was Romney ever in the run?

My position shifted greatly on the chatter about former Massachusetts Governor Mitt Romney really being in the race for the United States Secretary of State as Donald Trump publicly gave the perception he was a "potential pick" after a couple of meetings with the former occupant of the State House corner office. Many folks felt this was just for show and that he would never end up in the position.
Many felt that Romney's meetings were "all show and no substance," which I know is out there but not sure I accept this premise as really true. What I do think is that Trump or his proposed Secretary of State may use Romney in various diplomatic situations or even in congressional liaison roles as the former governor of a Democratic state.

I feel that Romney's ego would never have allowed him to meet with Trump unless he felt there was some potential that the possibility existed despite others being interviewed.

SEEM Collaborative proposal

While we are a long way from a decision being made on the future of the great Wyman School in Central Square in Woburn, the proposal as articulated by Woburn School Committee member Ellen Crowley sounded right on the mark in suggesting that SEEM, the special education collaborative for many of the Daily Times Chronicle communities for special needs students and districts, could be a perfect site for the operating offices and I assume space for needed special education classes with details to come if the proposal begins to move among local officials.

Ellen, the daughter of longtime former School Committee Chairman and member Joseph Crowley, has made an interesting proposal with some sound and solid thinking, much in character with her father who was known for his solid conceptual educational proposals during in long-time service years on the local School Committee.
I am sure Ellen would comment that many were involved in this "thinking process" on the local Committee but the initial sound of this sounds good, subject to decisions and inspections down the road, as they say.
JUST A NOTE: Again Merry Christmas and feel free to e-mail me at andrews@mas-supt.org or follow me on twitter at Paulandrewsmass

The most amazing life of sculptor Mico Kaufman

By LARZ F. NEILSON

Tewksbury sculptor Mico Kaufman, a soft-spoken man of great accomplishment, died on Monday, Dec. 12 at Lowell General Hospital.

He was the sculptor of four Presidential medals and many numismatic pieces and monumental sculptures. He put great thought into his choice of subjects, wanting to tell a story with each piece.

He created inaugural medals for presidents Ford, Carter, Reagan and George H. W. Bush, the only sculptor to have done four Presidential Inaugural medals. Numismatics, medallion work, was his forte, but his monumental work was also highly renowned. In 1978, he was named sculptor of the year by the American Numismatic Society. In 1992, he was honored with its J. Sanford Saltus Award for signal achievement.

His work is in museums throughout the United States and Europe.

Born in Romania in 1924, he survived forced labor in a Nazi concentration camp in World War II. After the war, he studied art in Italy and in 1951, he emigrated to the United States. He moved to Tewksbury in 1967 and spent more than half his life here. He was happiest living modestly in this suburban town, even as he was accolated the highest honors for his work.

In Tewksbury, his monumental works include "Water," "Touching Souls," a Veterans' Monument, "The Muster," and the Wamesit Indian.

Kaufman could unerringly identify the salient feature of a community or event on which to wield his talents. He very quietly delivered a message to those who would look at his work.

When Tewksbury celebrated its 250th anniversary, he could have made a statue of a military figure. He didn't.

Mico Kaufman made a statue showing Helen Keller and Anne Sullivan. It stands today on the lawn of the Tewksbury Town Hall, a monument to the fact that there can be kindness in this world.

Anne Sullivan served as a nurse in what is now the Tewksbury Hospital. She was devoted to the service of others.

Helen Keller, born blind and deaf, was in an isolated environment as a girl, unable to communicate or learn. It was not until Anne Sullivan took her into her arms that she was able to understand that there was kindness in life.

Kaufman depicted the first moment of understanding for Helen Keller. The statue shows Helen learning that the word for the moisture she was feeling was "water." It was the beginning of life and understanding for her.

For Veterans' Day 1986, Kaufman sculpted a monument in the shape of a stylus. On it is the name of every Tewksbury person who served in the armed forces of the United States in the two World Wars.

"I did it for those who served," said Kaufman. "I did it for those who came to my town at the end of World War II."

He was a young man living in Romania, a country overrun by the Nazis. Thousands of his compatriots had disappeared during the war.

▲ Tewksbury sculptor Mico Kaufman sculpted presidential inaugural medals for four presidents. He is show here in 1984 working with President Ronald Reagan.

His statue of the Wamesit Indian is an expression on the fate of the aboriginals who lived here before the arrival of white settlers. The inspiration for that statue came from his companion and life partner, Elsie Howell, who had worked among the Navajo Indians in the Southwest.

When the City of Lowell was celebrating its rebirth Mico reached down into the mass of humanity that made up Lowell in the days of the textile mills, and came up with a statue of three women, Lowell mill girls. Without the mill girls to work on the looms, Lowell would never have acquired its capacity to spin cotton for the world.

Lowell now has seven Kaufman sculptures on display, The Rouses Police Memorial, the McNeil-Whistler statue, Claude de Bussy, Italia, Mother Elizabeth Breyer and Blessed Eugene de Mazenod.

Kaufman never stopped working. Earlier this year, he published an autobiography, "A Chiseler's Story."

North Attleboro pesticide company to change advertising practices after deceptive marketing allegations

BOSTON — A North Attleboro-based pesticide company and its franchisees in Wilmington, Hanover, and Westfield have agreed to change their advertising practices and pay penalties to the state to resolve allegations that they misrepresented the potential impact of their pesticide spraying practices on the environment and public health, Attorney General Maura Healey announced.

"Homeowners should have the facts they need to make informed decisions about the potential risks to the environment and public health associated with spraying pesticides in their yards," said AG Healey. "Through this enforcement action, these companies will be required to take measures to protect consumers and accurately portray the potential risks of their pesticide spraying services."

This announcement follows AG Healey's recent first-of-its-kind enforcement action against Bayer CropScience, in which the agrochemical company agreed to change its advertising practices for its neonicotinoid containing pesticides to resolve allegations that the company misled and deceived consumers about the risks its pesticides pose to bees and the environment.

An assurance of discontinuance was filed on Dec. 15 in Suffolk Superior Court against Mosquito Shield LLC and its franchisees — Rowcor, Inc., operating as Mosquito Shield of the South Shore in Hanover, Lester Oakley LLC, operating as Mosquito Shield of Western Massachusetts in Westfield, and Barrier Corp., operating as Mosquito Shield of the North Shore in Wilmington.

The assurance requires that the companies to refrain from using the terms "pet friendly," "kid friendly," and "environmentally friendly" in its advertising. Mosquito Shield and its associated companies apply pesticides of the chemical class known as pyrethroids with backpack sprayers in outdoor common use areas such as yards, pools, decks, and patios to reduce the number of mosquitos in the target areas.

Studies show that there are potentially serious neurological and oncological risks associated with the insecticide that is used in these backyard sprayers, despite the widespread assumption that it is relatively safe. These chemicals are toxic by design, and their application must be carefully controlled.

The repeated broadcast spraying of pesticides in residential backyards in an attempt to limit the number of mosquitos is contrary to the safer methods of pest control known as Integrated Pest Management, which stresses prudence and minimizing chemical use. Integrated Pest Management practices include closely monitoring the need for pest control, focusing on prevention (for instance by eliminating potential mosquito breeding sites by emptying water from containers such as garbage cans, flower pots, bird baths, and discarded auto tires), and cautiously using the lowest risk pesticides capable of addressing the problem.

After reviewing Mosquito Shield's marketing materials, including brochures, print and internet advertisements, and customer contracts, the AG's Office concluded that the marketing materials may have directly or by implication misrepresented the safety of the companies' mosquito spraying practices. For example, one of the ads inaccurately claimed that the Mosquito Shield Control System used pesticide chemicals that are approved by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), when the EPA does not issue approvals for chemical pesticides and cautions companies not to characterize any pesticide product as EPA-approved.

Under the terms of the settlement reached with the AG's Office, the companies have agreed to pay the state $10,000 to resolve the matter. If a Mosquito Shield franchisee fails to comply with the requirements of the settlement, Mosquito Shield LLC, the franchisor, must terminate the franchise agreement.

The settlement also requires the companies take steps to minimize possible health risks associated with their products, including providing consumers with written notification advising them about the pesticides used on their property so they can make informed decisions about how to control pests on their property. The companies have also agreed to inform consumers that children and pets should not be present when the pesticides are being applied.

Benton praises School Committee for 'lofty goals,' but calls them 'overwhelming' included supporting all services identified as essential to the pre-K-12 programs, ensure every student receives excellent instruction every day, support and improve instruction through the clearly defined, research-based evaluation system, demonstrate fiscal responsibility by maintaining tight control on all salary and non-salary items, ensure equitable and reliable access to necessary technology tools, and connect teaching, learning, and assessment so that all students can achieve at the highest level.

While Benton praised the School Committee and the district for their lofty goals and ambitious programs, she recommended a "slow down" of multiple items.

"While I commend you on your lofty goals, I believe that the initiatives you have undertaken, for me personally, are overwhelming," Benton said. "This budget is going to slow some of those initiatives down."

Another goal of Benton's was to restore professional development funds.

Other details of Benton's proposed budget include an emphasis on maintaining class sizes, staffing levels, meeting contract requirements, funding more supplies at the Middle School to reduce requests of parents for school supplies, and reinstating a part-time library media specialist at the Boutwell and Wildwood Schools, and a full-time library media specialist at the Middle School.

"We are doing this [library positions] with the only cost being a .2 addition," Benton said.

The next step in the process will be to open up conversation with Town Manager Jeffrey Hull to finalize a recommendation for the budget.

"I always believe it's give and take, and the town has been very good to us," Benton said. "We'll work with Jeff...to come up with a number that we think is fair and come back to you in January with a final recommendation."

Giving Tree project benefits both givers and recipients

Bridget Sullivan, Victoria Le, and the members of the student council, brought the idea to life.

"It was done with incredible support from Superintendent Joanne Benton, Principal Linda Peters and the WHS faculty," Maloney explained. "Maeve and her parents, Mark and Maura, provided the tree and the decorations and we have used it as a symbol of charity and community involvement for the last four years. This the first year we have done it without Maeve and Ahnie spearheading it, but we are fortunate that the Sullivan family has remained a key part of the event."

Maloney said Maeve's younger sister Maura, a freshman, and her parents brought the tree in again this year and decorated it. The tree is festooned with tags that have items (toys, gift cards) that would help make this holiday season special for local families in need.

Students and teachers may take a tag (or just purchase any gift or gift card) and bring in, unwrapped, the item to be donated and place it near the tree or simply give it to Maloney. General Mills and Wilmington Food Service have donated a bike the last two years.

"The new leadership of the student council — Kristina Galvin, Christina Amato, and Fariha Haque — have been instrumental in drumming up support for this year's endeavor as well. We will be bringing the toys to the fire department early next week," Maloney said.

Although area children receive the gifts, the students receive so much more: valuable lessons of life and community involvement.

"The fact that this project has, from the beginning, been student driven shows how aware many of our students are to the fact that they have the ability to do tremendous good for those in the community who are less fortunate or have fallen on hard times," Maloney said. "It is critical that these types of projects continue to allow all students to help out the members of their community and really foster community involvement."

Wilmington, in general, does an amazing job of taking care of each other during the holiday season, whether it be the variety of activities of the Wilmington fire and police departments or the We're One Wilmington organization, he added.

"The amount of care for the community is truly special. Those groups and many others in town that do good in the community all year are critical in creating an environment that our students can model and be involved with to help others," Maloney said.

Local grapplers excel at Sons of Italy Tournament

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com
Three local teams, Shawsheen Tech, Tewksbury High and Wilmington High, were among the 18 outstanding squads at the Wilmington Sons of Italy Wrestling Tournament last Saturday afternoon at the Shriner's Auditorium in Wilmington, and each of the local clubs had wrestlers who did their schools and towns proud with outstanding performances.

Leading the way among the local teams, and in fact the entire 18-team field was Shawsheen Tech, who captured the team title with 154 total points, followed by North Andover in second place, with 141 points, Central Catholic (138), Haverhill (118) and Masconomet (109). Tewksbury earned an eighth place overall finish with 70 total points, while Wilmington was 16th with 17 points, despite not being represented in several weight classes.

Shawsheen, which finished second in this tournament last year, won the title this time around with one overall champion, senior Jake Ferri at 113 pounds, along with three second place finishers and three third place finishers.

Ferri was dominant on his way to the 113-pound title, as well as winning the tournament's Outstanding Wrestler honors. Ferri won his first two matches by pin, over Connor Charron of Tewksbury and Kevin Fuller of Haverhill, before beating Jack Darling of Masconomet in the finals by a score of 7-2.

Vincent Foti (126) and Derek Sardella (195), along with Cody Sughrue of Tewksbury at 152 pounds, each earned second place finishes for the Rams.

Sughrue had a tough path to the finals, needing to in three matches to get there, and he did so by dominating all three of his opponents. The junior defeated Nic Michaski of Gloucester in the round of 16 in a time of 1:54, before dominating Jack Clark of Central Catholic in the quarterfinals by a score of 10-2, and pinning Pat Brothers of Tewksbury in a time of 3:16 in the semifinals. He was finally defeated by CJ Cincotta of North Andover in the finals.

Three Wilmington residents, Tom Strow at 145 pounds, Bryan Domek at 170 pounds and Omar Eldely at 220 pounds, each earned third place finishes.

Strow, who won the 1378 pound title at this tournament last season, defeated Noah Kreuger of Andover in the first round and Abraham Spurlak of Brookline in the quarterfinals before losing to Braden Hiltz of Tewksbury High in the semi-finals. Strow would bounce back to pin Eli Tuttle of North Andover in 4:54.

Domek got his day off to a rough start, getting pinned by eventual champ Quintin Holland in the first round. He then moved to the consolation bracket, where he was a force to be reckoned with, pinning Marcus McLaughlin of Dedham in 1:27, Devin Smith of Haverhill in 1:44, Tom Moeller of Central Catholic in 4:37 and Paul Farias of Tewksbury in 1:44 before winning his third

WHS Boys Indoor Track Preview

Boys Indoor Track looking to make strides towards a winning season

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com

The Wilmington High Boys Indoor Track team will be looking to build off of last season's 2-3 record as they enter this season under the direction of coach Mike Kinney.

The Wildcats will have a relatively inexperienced roster as they attempt to get over the .500 mark this season, led by sophomores Joe Dumolin in the high jump and Jordan Olatilu in sprint events. Dumolin and Olatilu are only a small sampling of what Kinney thinks can be an exciting team this season.

"We have a lot of newcomers, a lot of fresh faces but I think we will be competitive," Kinney said. "The first two weeks of practice have gone well. I'm impressed with how hard everyone has been working."

While Kinney is looking forward to seeing what the Wildcats newcomers can do, he is also looking for big things from several returning athletes, including senior sprinters Jared Magliozzi and Dave Bell (4 x 400) and junior sprinters Sean Braz and Tommy Hogan.

Other key returnees for the Wildcats will be senior Jason Dunn in the two mile, along with seniors Ray Russell and Justin Eckstrom in middle distance events, and fellow senior Conor Kilbride in the shot put.

The Wildcats captains will be Dunn, Eckstrom and fellow senior Nick Gorham.

Kinney feels another strength of the team will be his assistant coaches, whom he feels will bring some expert advice to the young team, starting with new coach Joe Patrone, who will be coaching sprinting, hurdles and the high jump

"He should be a great asset. He makes practice fun for the kids. He prides himself on doing something different every single day, so no repeat workouts," Kinney said. "He brings a lot of experience. He went to the Olympic Trials. He is the New England record holder in the high jump at 7-6.50 and he's the tenth best high jumper in America in the high jump ever. He coached at Lawrence, Somerville and Peabody. He's a MSTCA Hall of Famer and he's just a very, very good coach."

Kinney is also excited to have Michelle Angelo returning as a coach once again this season as the team's shot put coach.

"She did a great job with those kids last year and she threw the shot put at Springfield College (and at Woburn High)," Kinney said. "She has a lot of knowledge about the technique and she, like Joe, has a very innovative way of teaching the kids."

Other members of the

WHS Girls Indoor Track Preview

Girls Indoor Track eyes tough road to repeat

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com

Coming off a perfect 5-0 season and a Middlesex League Freedom Division championship, the first championship in program history, the Wilmington High Girls Indoor Track team will be looking for more of the same this season under the direction of coach Brian Schell, but Schell knows it will not be easy for his team to duplicate last season's success after losing several outstanding athletes to graduation.

Three of the Wildcats best athletes, Julia Gake, Elisabeth Olson and Samantha Pitzzi have taken their talents to the collegiate level, leaving a rather sizable hole in the Wildcats lineup.

"Defending the title this year is going to be very difficult especially after losing Julia Gake, Elisabeth Olson and Samantha Pitzzi," Schell said. "All three of them were basically automatic first places in every event. Right now going into this season our concerns would be high jump. Right now we're still at the point going into every meet of giving up nine points to every team. Hopefully with Coach (Joe) Patrone coming here he is world class himself, top notch so he'll help some of our girls, no doubt. Hopefully if not this year but in the future. He'll also help us in the hurdles."

Along with key losses due to graduation, the Wildcats also face other obstacles in their path to repeating as league champs, namely the very good competition in the Middlesex Freedom, starting with Wakefield.

"It's going to be tough because of Wakefield," Schell said. "They have a top shot putter, a top 100-meter runner and they've got it all. We have the girls to do it but we have some big shoes to fill with the graduation of those three girls."

It is certainly not all doom and gloom for the Wildcats. While Schell definitely respects the other teams in the Middlesex League and knows he has lost three special athletes to graduation, he also feels like he has some talented athletes in on his roster who can make some headlines of their own.

"We have a few girls who I think could fill those shoes in sophomores Alyssa Bernazani and Emma Garrity," Schell said. "Emma last spring was just four seconds off of Julia's time in the 800. In the distance events we need some people to step up especially in the two mile. We need some people under 13 minutes and that's going to be my third concern."

Another returning runner Schell is looking for big things from is Alexcia Luna, whom he feels can help the Wildcats in several events.

"We have plans for her to work a little bit more in the dash," Schell said. "She did the dash and the 300 last year and I keep stressing to the girls that we need to learn about versatility and depth and we need to be able to compete in multiple races and events. In this case with Alexcia she did the dash last year and then helped us out in other events. There are other girls like Thea Aliberti who are going to help out in the 300."

One thing Schell feels like he has been able to count in recent years has been having a hard working and well conditioned group of athletes throughout his roster. He is hoping for more of the same this season.

"I told the kids that off-season training is one of the hardest things you can learn and we're going to learn about how much that off-season training is going to pay off for us," Schell said. "We're going to see how much these kids put forth in the off-season especially leading up to this indoor season."

In addition to the athletes mentioned above, other members of this year's Indoor Track team are senior captains Anna De La Cruz, Shannon Horgan, Madison Knibbs and Julianna Mastorilli, along with fellow seniors Julianna Iocco, Marta Moretino, Sofia Puccio and Lisa Tran, junior captain Taeya Peroni, along with fellow juniors Cassidy Donovan, Abigail Genthner, Mia O'Connell, Lailoo Perillo, Paola Rodriguez, Alison Sullivan and Ivy Usuomon, sophomores Dorothea Alberti, Kiki Barnum, Kacie Bourell, Kayla Bourell, Meghan Canale, Sadie DeAmbrose, Kayla Driscoll, Ashlyn Finn, Paige Gallucci, Natalie Goselin, April Haines, Julia McLaughlin, Sophia Novak, Emma Rhind, Amie Russell, Victoria Sheehan and Leah Stalker and freshmen Joanne Arulaj, Samantha Burke, Courtney Cummings, Grace Foley, Evelyn Miller-Nuzzo, Gianna Misuraca, Juliana Patrone, Heather Ritson and Gabriela Villalta.

Boys Hockey

It has been a fine start to the season for the Wilmington High Boys Hockey team, as the Wildcats are off to a 1-0-1 start, including making some program history in their season opening 2-1 win over Woburn last Wednesday night in their season opener at Ristuccia Arena.

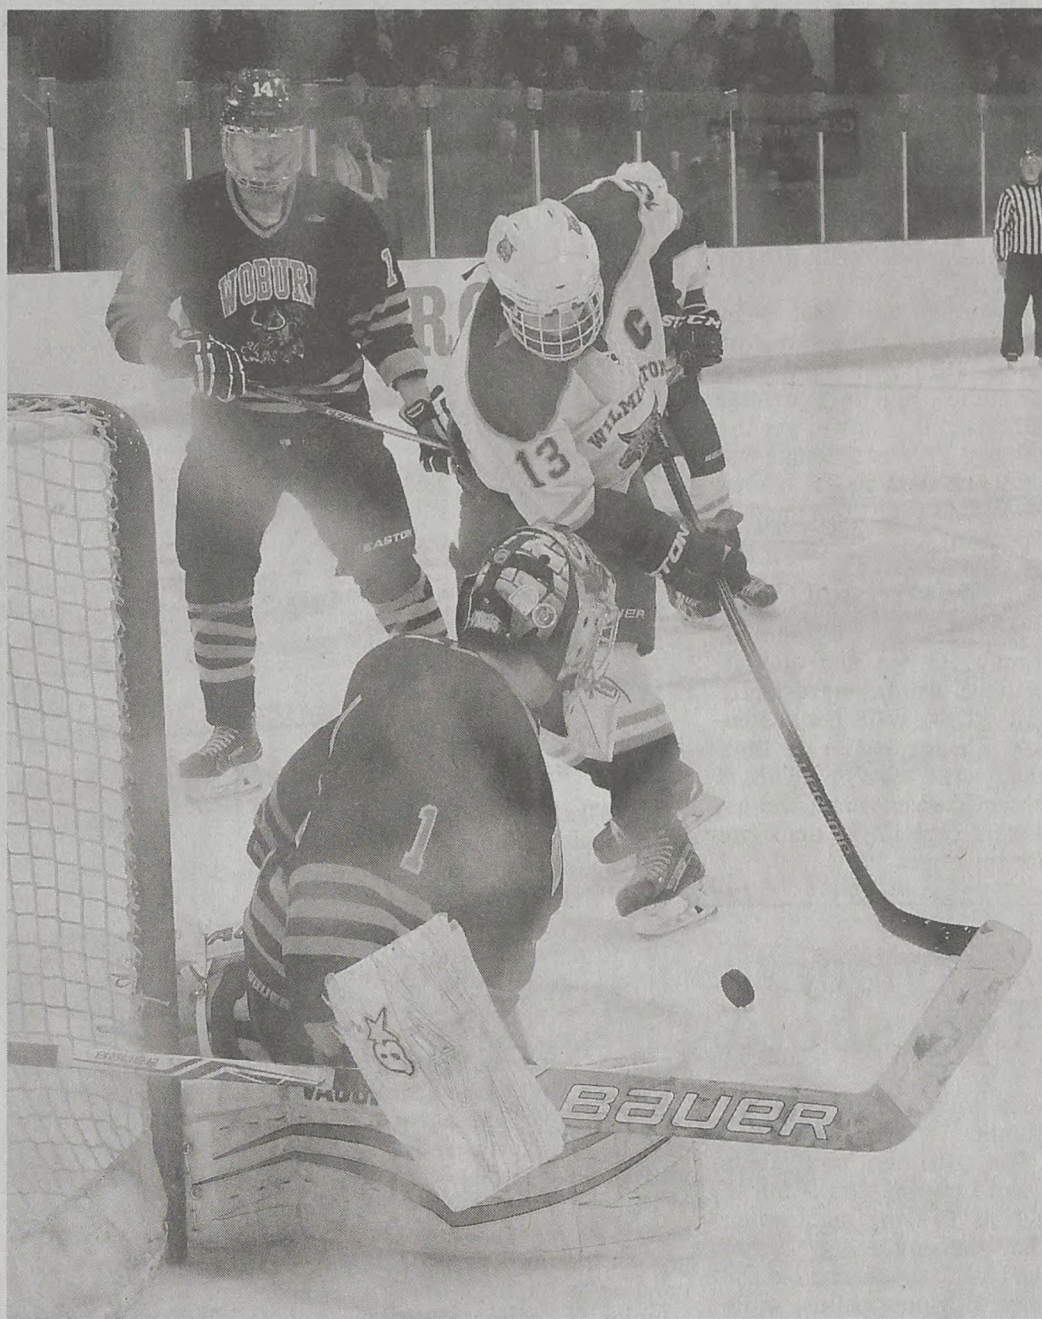

With the win over Woburn, the Wildcat were able to not only get their season off to a fast start, but in doing so, also picked up their first win over Woburn since joining the Middlesex League six years ago. Sophomore forward Dan Woods scored the game winning goal for the Wildcats at the 11:43 mark of the third period, snapping a 1-1 tie, on assists by Ryan Barrett and Jared Aucoin.

After a scoreless first period, Wilmington had gotten on the board first with under a minute left in the second period when Andrew Sullivan scored on assists from Ryan Barrett and Bobby Lord.

Woburn didn't waste much time in striking back, scoring off the opening faceoff in the third period, just six seconds into the frame for a 1-1 tie.

Ryan St. Jean was in net for the Wildcats, making 16 saves, as Wilmington finished with 21-17 shot advantage. Senior forward Tom Worab also played a strong overall game, while the Wildcat defensive unit of Kyle Collins, Conlin Duffy, Jared Aucoin and AJ McKearney was solid all night.

The Wildcats followed up their impressive season opening win with another fine effort on Saturday night, but the results were not quite as good, as they were forced to settle for a 3-3 tie with Lexington at Ristuccia Arena, despite controlling play for much of the game.

This game featured an eventful first couple of minutes, as the Wildcats were called for a penalty on the first shift of the game, and Lexington took immediate advantage with a power play goal to take an early 1-0 lead.

Wilmington would bounce back however, tying things up just 1:41 into the game on a goal by Connor Benoit, with assists going to Nate DiMeco and Joey Mirabella. The goal for Benoit was the first of his varsity career, while Mirabella's assist was his first varsity point. The Wildcats took a 2-1 lead into the first intermission when Bobby Lord scored his first varsity goal at the 10:03 mark of the first period, off of an assist by Ryan Barrett.

Lexington scored the only second period goal just 30 seconds into the frame and the teams went to the second intermission in a 2-2 deadlock.

Wilmington would take a 3-2 lead early in the third period when Lord got his second goal of the game and his career, on another assist by Barrett. The Wildcats would dominate the rest of the period out shooting Lexington 14-4 in the stanza, but the Minutemen would tie the score at the 12:47 mark, scoring off a deflection for the 3-3 final.

Wilmington out shot Lexington 29-15 for the game, with Wildcats goalie Ryan St. Jean, making 12 saves in the net.

Wilmington traveled to Belmont on Wednesday night as the Town Crier was going to press, and they will be back in action next Tuesday night when they take on Newton North in the first round of the Hillies Christmas Tournament at Veteran's Memorial Rink in Haverhill at 5:00 pm.

Boys Basketball

The hockey team wasn't the only team to beat Woburn for the first time this week, as the Boys Basketball team also accomplished the feat, beating the Tanners 67-54 on Friday night in their season opener for their first win over Woburn since joining the Middlesex League.

Senior captain Joe Gaudreau led the way for Wilmington scoring 29 points and grabbing seven rebounds to power his team to victory in coach Dennis Ingram's first game as Wildcats head coach.

Senior captain Cam Walsh had eight points and eight rebounds for the Wildcats, while junior guard Dan Garcia had 11 points and four assists. Zack Richards played tenacious defense on Woburn's best offensive player in the second half, helping the Wildcats come away with the victory in a game where they trailed for much of the contest.

Girls Hockey

The Wilmington High Girls Hockey team had some mixed results in their first two games, opening their season with a tough 6-0 loss to Woburn last Wednesday night at Ristuccia Arena, before bouncing back to earn a hard fought, come from behind 3-3 tie with Lexington on Saturday night at the Edge Sports Complex in Bedford.

Against Lexington, the Wildcats went into the third period trailing 3-1, but behind a strong defensive effort led by freshman goalie Melanie Hayden, the Wildcats shut down the Lexington offense in the third period while the Wildcats offense took over.

The Wildcats first Line of Olivia Wingate, Danielle Silva, and Sam Grasso sparked the offense, outplaying Lexington's first line both offensively and defensively in the third period.

Silva struck first with a goal to make it 3-2 on an assist by Wingate. Wingate then tied it up with an assist from Grasso later in the third.

Sophomore forward Jocelyn Palmer had scored the Wildcats first goal of the game in the second period, converting on assists by Molly Foley and Lia Kourkoutas.

Girls Basketball

The Wilmington High Girls Basketball team has played well in their first two games this season, with little to show for it in terms of results, as they have dropped a pair of tough games, falling by a score of 51-49 last Friday night in their season opener, before playing well once again on Tuesday night, only to lose by a score of 60-55 to Lexington.

score of 47-39 in a meet that wasn't decided until the final event of the day.

Heading into that final event, the 4 x 400 relay, the Wildcats held a slim 42-39 lead, meaning the winner of the event would take the meet, and it was the Wildcats who came out on top with an outstanding effort by Alyssa Bernazani, Anna De La Cruz, Taeya Peroni and Lexi Luna qualifying for the state meet with a time of 4:24.46 to earn the victory.

"Alyssa ran a strong first leg opening up roughly a 40 meter lead only to hand it off to Anna who furthered that distance to 50 meters and the team never looked back," Wilmington coach Brian Schell said. "I am happy for these girls as they were able to push hard and stay focused given the task at hand and the circumstance of the race."

Schell knew his team would have to be at their bet if they were going to come out on top against Melrose, and he was pleased with the way his team responded to the pressure of their first meet.

"Going into the meet, we knew Melrose was tough and a well rounded team," Schell said. "From the start of the meet we had plenty of strong performances. We had plenty of events where our lack of experience showed, however the team collectively fought tough, worked hard and pulled off a tough win."

Along with the 4 x 400, other first place finishers for the Wildcats included Emma Garrity in the mile in a time of 5:53 and Bernazani in the 1000 meters in a time of 3:21, along with Taeya Peroni in the 600 meters (1:51), Abby Genthner in the two mile (13:50) and Lexi Luna in the 55 meters (7.65).

Second place finishers for the Wildcats included De La Cruz in the mile (6:01), Tori Sheehan in the 300 (46.0), Sam Burke in the two mile (13:55) and Kiki Barnum in the 55 meter hurdles (11.00).

Finishing third for the Wildcats were Evelyn Miller-Nuzzo in both the 600 (1:58) and the high jump (4' 2"), Shannon Horgan in the 300 (48.0), Thea Alberti in the 55 meters (8.18) and Julianna Mastrorilli in the shot put (27' 1/4").

"Overall, the meet went well," Schell said. "We had some PRs and solid performances and the team was able to rally back to get the victory. It was a tough win and our next meet against Wakefield is an even tougher opponent."

Correction

In last week's edition, Emily Hayden and Jocelyn Palmer were inadvertently left off the WHS Girls' Hockey preview, and on the Boys team write-up, Kyle Collins is a senior defenseman and assistant captain. We apologize for the errors.

Boys Basketball

The Tewksbury High Boys Basketball team picked up an impressive win last Friday night, downing non-league rival Tyngsboro by a score of Tewksbury 57-46.

Mike Catanzano led the way for the Redmen, scoring 14 first quarter points to help the Redmen to a 16-8 lead at the end of one quarter, and the Redmen maintained control throughout the rest of the contest to come away with the win to even their record on the season at 1-1.

The victory was also the first win for new Redmen head coach Tom Bradley.

Tewksbury led 29-17 at the half and maintained their 13-point lead at 42-29 after three quarters when Giovanni Ciampa nailed a long three pointer at the third quarter buzzer for three of ten points in the game.

Tyngsboro did rally in the fourth quarter, closing to within eight points with under two minutes left, but the Redmen were never seriously threatened, and Brandon Winn closed out the scoring with a pair of free throws in the final seconds to seal the victory.

The Redmen had a well balanced scoring attack, with David Guiggio, Steve Catanzano and Mason Lorick each chipping in six points.

The Redmen saw their record on the season fall to 1-2 on Tuesday night when they suffered a 69-47 loss to Andover. Catanzano led the way with nine points, while Danny Priest chipped in with eight for the Redmen.

Boys Hockey

The Boys Hockey team had just one game this past week, dropping a hard fought 3-1 decision to North Andover on Saturday night at the Breakaway Ice Center, leaving the Redmen with an 0-2 record on the season.

Senior defenseman Jonathan Fowler scored the only goal of the game for the Redmen, tying the score at 1-1 in the first period after North Andover had taken an early lead. North Andover would retake the lead at 2-1 at the end of the first period before adding an insurance goal in the third period and hanging on for the 3-1 win.

Junior goalie Trevor Harris made 12 saves in net for the Tewksbury.

The Redmen will be back in action next Tuesday through Thursday when they compete in the Yankee Ford Holiday Classic, in Gorham, Maine. The Redmen will take on Biddeford, Maine in the tournament opener on Tuesday night at 6:30 at the USM Ice Arena.

Girls Hockey

The Tewksbury/Methuen

Girls Hockey team improved to 2-0 on the season with a solid 6-2 win over Cambridge Ridge and Latin last Wednesday night at Methuen High School.

The Red Rangers were led by a pair of goals from junior forward Kelly Golini, as well as single tallies from Kaylen Taddia, Riley Cote, Abby O'Keefe and Niamh Cote. Golini also added an assist, while other assists for the Red Rangers came from Amanda Downing, Carolyn Curley, Lydia Pendelton and Cote.

The Red Rangers jumped out to a 5-0 lead at the end of the first period, and extended it to 6-0 midway through the second period before Cambridge fought back with a pair of goals for the 6-2 final.

Freshman goalie Kaia Hollingsworth had 13 saves in net for the Red Rangers, who improved to 2-0 on the season with the victory.

"Tonight was a very strong team win," Red Rangers coach Sarah Oteri said. "We made many plays and had strong puck possession."

Girls Basketball

The Tewksbury Girls Basketball team is off to a 1-1 start to their season. The Redmen opened their season with a 38-31 overtime win over Tyngsboro last Friday night, led by 12 points from Erin Gallella, before suffering a 53-44 loss to Andover on Tuesday night despite 15 points from Ally Wild and 11 points from Haley Mignon.

PeeWee 3's get big win before holiday break

The Wilmington Wildcat PeeWee 3 team ventured out on a snowy Saturday afternoon and captured a 3-1 victory over the Wellesley Raiders at the Janas in Lowell.

In the final game before the Christmas break, the Wildcats came to play. Jake McLean tended the goal for Wilmington and was on top of his game, while the defensive squad of Matt Mozuch, Nicholas Spencer, Aadarssh Sivakumar, and Paige Fuller also brought their "A" game making it tough for the Raiders to mount any type of offensive attack.

Wilmington would score first half way through the first period when Mike Maselli made a great pass to Bobby Dodge. Dodge then split the defense, and walked in and beat the Wellesley net minder glove side with a nice shot giving the Wildcats a 1-0 lead.

Some fierce, aggressive hustle from the line of Brett Gallucci, Dylan Mullarky, and Lexi Engvaldsen lead to several good scoring opportunities for the Wildcats. With time running out in the first period, Tyler Sheehan helped move the puck up to Dodge who put a nice pass on Maselli's stick. Maselli then zipped a quick wrist shot past the Raider's goalie in the final seconds of the period for a 2-0 lead which the Wildcats would carry into the second period.

Early in the second the Wildcats continued the attack. Jordan Legere broke up a play in the neutral zone and carried the puck into the opponents end and found the back of the net with a good hard shot along the ice giving the Wildcats a 3-0 lead. Wilmington's defense continued to play strong and McLean kept turning aside any attempts of the Raiders to get into the game. The 'Cats took the 3-0 lead into the final frame.

Despite the outstanding team effort by the Wildcats, Wellesley was able to get on the board in the early moments of the third period. This just fired up the Wildcat team and if it wasn't for some good goaltending in the opponent's end, the Cats would have blown it open. The coaches and fans were delighted with the outcome as the Wildcats earned a well deserved win.

Braden Hiltz got his second place finish at 145 pounds with wins over Eli Tuttle by a score of 5-2 in the quarterfinals and Strow of Shawsheen Tech in the semi-finals by a score of 7-1. He finally saw his great day come to an end with a loss to Colby Giroux of Mount Mansfield in the finals.

Blake Hiltz, who finished second in the Sons of Italy tournament for the second year in a row, after earning runner up honors last season at 145 pounds, stormed his way to the 160 pound finals this year with pins in each of his first three matches.

Hiltz started his day with a pin of Shawsheen's CJ Zemetras in just 41 seconds, followed by a pin of Tyler Norman of Peabody in 40 seconds in the quarterfinals, and Alex Peralta of Central Catholic in 2:50 in the semifinals, before dropping a 9-6 decision to Jack Anderson of Tewksbury in the finals.

Wild earned his fourth place finish with a pair of victories, first over Peter Desimone of Gloucester, by a score of 16-7 in the quarterfinals before losing to eventual champion Joey Perkins of Masconomet in the semifinals.

Wild bounced back, however, defeating Christian Hoar of Shawsheen by pin in 1:29 in the consolation semifinals before losing a hard fought 3-1 match to Allyn French of Dracut in the third place match.

Tim Rivers (152 pounds) and Pat Farias (170) each won two matches on the day, with Rivers defeating Brian Caldwell of Shawsheen by a score of 3-2 and Devin Veil of Danvers by a score of 8-2, while Farias pinned Ryan MacDonald of North Andover by pin in 4:09 in the first round, and Tyrese Elmdore of Salem in the quarterfinals in 59 seconds before losing to eventual champ Quintin Holland of Danvers in the semi-finals.

Tournament host Wilmington's top finisher was senior Sam Jennings at 170 pounds, who earned a fourth place finish with some outstanding wrestling before being forced to forfeit his third place match.

Jennings got his day started with a 16-7 win over Jon Salmeron of Peabody in the first round, and an 8-1 win over Devin Smith of Haverhill in the quarterfinals before losing a 3-2 heartbreaker to Atman Barille of Brookline in the semi-finals.

Jennings would come back to beat Salmeron again in the consolation semi-finals before forfeiting to Ryan Domek of Shawsheen in the finals.

Alex Stern (113 pounds) and James Carroll (220 pounds), also each won a match for the Wildcats, with Sterns earning his win with a pin over Jahsim Albaghadi of Brookline in 2:54, while Carroll got his win with a 7-2 decision over Kelly Howard of Andover.
